

The Daily Courant.

Wednesday, August 6. 1718.

London, August 6.

Yesterday arriv'd a Mail from France.

From the Paris Gazette, dated Aug. 13.

Madrid, July 26.

THE Relation of the Voyage of the King's Fleet, which has been receiv'd from Sicily, contains the following Particulars. The 17th of June they departed from Barcelona, with the Gallies and Transport ships, under the Command of the Marquis de Lede, Captain General, and Don Antonio de Gastagneta. The 23d they arriv'd at the Cape of Pola, upon the Coast of Sardinia, where they anchor'd to take in Water, and to embark some Troops. The 27th they again set Sail, and on the 30th arriv'd at the Coast of Trapani, standing towards San-Vito, where they intended to land. But a pretty strong Wind oblig'd them to alter their Design, and having sail'd towards Cape Monello, they arriv'd the 1st of July in Sight of Cape Solanto, 3 Leagues from Palermo, where the Port is commodious, as well for the Security of the Ships, as the Convenience of Landing. They enter'd therefore, and us'd such Care and Diligence, that before Night the Infantry, and Part of the Cavalry and Dragoons were landed, and drawn up in Battalia. The 2d, they completed the Landing of the Cavalry, which was found in good Condition, notwithstanding the Fatigue of so long a Voyage. On the 4th, the Troops march'd to Malaspina, near Palermo, where the King arriv'd at the same time. They were inform'd that Count Maffei, seeing the general Disposition of the Nobility and People in submit to their ancient Master, and to open the Gates of Palermo, went from thence with three Battalions, leaving 500 Men in the Castle, and retired towards Messina. While the Troops were marching, the Deputies of the Senate, and the Principal of the Nobility, came to make their Submission to the Marquis de Lede, who assur'd them, of his Catholick Majesty's Protection, and a Treatment as favourable as they could desire. When they were near the Town, the Burghers open'd the Gates, which the Grenadiers of the Spanish Guards immediately took Possession of; and Orders were given for attacking the Castle, in case it made Resistance. The Marquis de Lede therefore left a Body of Troops to block it up, and with the rest march'd towards Messina, whither the Artillery was conducted by Sea. Part of the Dragoons and Horse were detach'd to block up Augusta and Syracuse, assisted by the Militia of the Country, who came in great Numbers to offer their Service. They found in the Port of Palermo a new Ship of 72 Guns, which they took, and added it to the Fleet. They were inform'd that the Troops that were in the Kingdom consisted of 8 Battalions of Piemontese and Savoyards, 1 Sicilian, 2 Swiss, and 1 of Montserrat, and 1 Regiment of Dragoons. The King receiv'd this News the 23d at the Escorial, by a Courier who came from Palermo the 5th. And the 24th Te Deum was sung in the Church of St. Lawrence, as it was also here in the Chappel of the Palace; and there has been Illuminations and Rejoicings for three Nights together throughout the City upon this Occasion.

Naples, July 12. The Viceroy heard with great Surprise a few Days ago, by the Return of two Feluccas sent out upon Discovery, that the Spaniards had made themselves Masters of Palermo, and were marching for Messina. He immediately assembled a Council of War, which sat a great while, and afterwards a Felucca was dispatch'd to Calabria, upon Account of a Report spread, that the Germans who were in Garrison in Reggio were retired from thence. It was order'd, that the Horse Rounds should be made every Night by the Officers, and that there should be kept on Guard 1000 Foot and 500 Horse, for the Security of the City. It was at the same time declar'd, that there were 2000 Horse upon the Road, to reinforce the Troops, and that the English Fleet was enter'd the Mediterranean, which would put the Kingdom into a Condition to be in no Fear of the Attempts of the Spaniards.

From the Amst. Courant, dated Aug. 13.

Schaffhuysen, Aug. 4. By the Letters we have received from the Borders of France, we hear, that as soon as the Duke of Savoy received Advice of the Invasion made by the Spaniards upon Sicily, he immediately sent away some of his principal Generals, among the rest the Marquis de Parcella, to Messina to assist in defending that City, which Generals pass'd thro' Genoa the 22d; but received Advice there, that the Spanish Fleet being reinforced by the last Convoy from Cadix, were already come before that City: And that many Spanish Men of War were sent to several Places, to seize the Sicilian or Savoy Gallies. The same Letters add, that the Burghers and Inhabitants of Messina have made a Defection from the King of Sicily, and seiz'd the two Forts, &c. But it is known that there are not less than 4000 Men of Savoy Troops in Messina; that the Place is well provided with all Necessaries to sustain a Siege; and that the Fortifications are very strong; so that it will be able to hold out some time.

Frankfort, Aug. 7. We hear that the Landgrave of Hesse Cassel has propos'd some Expedients to the Imperial Court for diverting the Execution, about Rhynfels; among the rest, that the Forts shall be put into the Hands of some Neutral Potentate, till such time as the Differences between him and the Landgrave of Rotemburg can be adjusted. But the Emperor nevertheless persists in his Resolution, that the Execution shall be prosecuted, and that for that purpose, the Circle Troops be increas'd. However, another Express is gone from Cassel to Vienna, to make some further Proposals; and in the mean time the Circle Troops lie still.

From the Haerlem Courant, dated Aug. 13.

Hamburg, Aug. 9. They write from Peterburg, that the three Deck Ship of 90 Guns, whereof the Czar laid the first Stick two Years ago, was launch'd there, in the Presence of his Majesty, the Royal Family, and many thousand Persons, with good Success. The Fleet lay still at Cronstoot, and 'twas unknown when the Czar would depart with it. Several Russians that were Prisoners in Sweden being releas'd, are returned home. Concerning the Treaty of Peace at Alard, no more is said, than that the Russian Plenipotentiaries are suddenly expected back again; but without mentioning whether any thing is concluded, or whether the Treaty be broken off.

From the Amst. Courant, dated Aug. 13.

Whereas there have been some People who very industriously report, that Mr. Molyneux, at the Election of Chamberlain of London, had but few Hands held up for him; this is to satisfy them, it was the Fault of those he intrusted with 4000 Printed Papers, which was to be deliver'd out at the Hall by Nine a Clock in the Morning, but they never came till Twelve; which with the Help of the Report there, that he declin'd, discourag'd his Friends, so that those Liverrmen that were for him, voted for Mr. Ludlam, whom they knew he respected next himself; and whenever there is a Vacancy of that Place, if he please to stand, they will show themselves his sincere Friends, being very much concern'd at his ill Usage the last Time.
